List Profile

The IDG International Database is 100% direct response generated from the following three sources: (1) The international circulations of the U.S. IDG publications and newsletters of CIO, Computerworld, CSO, InfoWorld, Macworld, Network World and PC World. (2) The international attendee list from LinuxWorld Conference and Expo and NGDC Conference and Expo. (3) The circulation of IT World Canada.

With the IDG International Database you can reach international computer professionals who both recommend and make purchasing decisions regarding computers, computer services and supplies. This List is a smart choice for U.S. companies looking to sell their products, publications, trade shows or seminars overseas.

No other publisher matches IDG's reach into the international computer market.

Profile

IT World Canada is the country's consummate and most respected media source for news, views and opinions for the enterprise IT professional. IT World Canada's multi-faceted audience of readers represents the IT elite - professionals who are on the leading edge of building and managing the IT resources of Canada's largest companies. In 2007, IT World Canada acquired IT Business, which brought leading brands such as Computer Dealer News, French-language Direction Informatique and www.itbusiness.ca into the fold. These additional brands along with IT World Canada's award-winning CIO Canada, CIO Government Review, ComputerWorld Canada and Network World Canada brands are an unmatched media source and the IT World Canada Masterfile delivers the most complete single source for IT buyers and key influencers within Canada's $41 billion* market.

Representing a strong and growing economy, IT World Canada taps into more than 142,000 technology executives and professionals - representing 70%* of the buying power in Canada:

- It is estimated that large enterprise companies increased their IT spending by more than 7%* in 2006
- The highest per company spend is still in the large enterprise segment, with a significant proportion focused in very large enterprises of 1000+ employees.

*Source: Ipsos-Reid, 2006

IT World Canada's exceptional database lists Canada's most unique and highly qualified IT executives - those with the power to influence and make purchase decisions for a range of technology products and services. Whether it is systems, applications, communications services, local and wide area networks or services - IT World Canada has the ability to reach the country's most influential decision makers.

Profile

Founded in 1899 and published by the world renowned Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT), Technology Review today is proud to be the oldest technology magazine in the world. Its mission is to promote the understanding of emerging technologies and to analyze their commercial, economic, social, and political impact on society, government, businesses, academic institutions, and individuals. The goal is to assist business and technology leaders – CTOs, senior technologists, CXOs, CSOs, policy makers, venture capitalists, and early adopters in shaping markets and driving the global economy.

Technology Review occupies an unparalleled position at the intersection of business and technology. No other magazine combines the sophisticated, in depth, emerging technology editorial with the business impact of these innovations.

Technology Review subscribers are senior level decision makers who are active knowledge seekers and innovators with a profound need to understand how technology moves the global enterprise. ### Profile

Technology Review is the oldest technology magazine in the world, published since 1899 by Technology Review, Inc., an independent media company owned by MIT. Technology Review's mission is to promote the understanding of emerging technologies, and analyze their commercial, economic, social, and political impact on business and leaders. The editorial is designed for today's technology and business leaders - CXOs, senior technologists, entrepreneurs and venture capitalists - who are shaping markets and driving the global economy.

Technology Review occupies an unparalleled position at the intersection of business and technology. No other magazine combines the sophisticated, in depth, emerging technology editorial with the business impact of these innovations.

Technologyreview.com contains highly focused information that services a young, affluent, well-educated group of executives who are the decision makers for both large and emerging growth companies. The site boasts over 620,000* unique visitors each month. *Source: 2007 technologyreview.com@plan Custom Study, Nielsen Online.

The Technology Review Email Database is built from subscribers to Technology Review in either print or digital format, subscribers to the web site, purchasers of individual PDF articles and market research, or subscribers to Emerging Technologies enewsletter. And all have given permission to receive third-party emailed product and information offers.
